WELCOME

This year, the 40th anniversary of Juddmonte, provides an opportunity to reflect on the achievements of Prince Khalid bin Abdullah and what lies behind his enduring and consistent success.

Prince Khalid's interest in racing goes back to the 1950s. He first became an owner in the mid-1970s and, in 1979, won his first Group 1 victory with Known Fact in the Middle Park Stakes at Newmarket and purchased his first broodmare with the private acquisition of Metair.

In 1980, Prince Khalid's burgeoning breeding and racing operation was organised under the Juddmonte name. For 40 years, Juddmonte's achievements have resulted from his enthusiasm and direct involvement, which has translated into an in-depth knowledge of his horses, their pedigrees and their families. The Prince's time spent in the early days developing his understanding, finding the right horses, the right farms and the right people to look after them established the foundations for Juddmonte's track record.

The key focus has always been on the broodmare band and the quality of Juddmonte's Green Book of broodmare pedigrees, developed and nurtured over the last 40 years by Prince Khalid. This Green Book has been instrumental in the development of Juddmonte's stallion rosters and, conversely, the impact of the stallion rosters on the Green Book is similarly vital. It is very much a family affair with our stallions being homebred to at least two generations and, in the case of Expert Eye and Bated Breath, four generations. Homebred stallions have been responsible for over one-third of Juddmonte's 113 homebred Gr.1 winners.

Juddmonte's activities embrace every stage in the life of a racehorse from birth to training, from racecourse to retirement, across its farms in the UK, Ireland and the USA. We employ some 250 people, with our UK headquarters based at Banstead Manor Stud in Suffolk, our Irish headquarters at Ferrans Stud in County Meath and our US headquarters near Lexington in Kentucky. We look to support racing and breeding in Europe and the USA by sponsoring major races, by developing strong and long-lasting relationships, especially with breeders, and by specific donations especially to organisations which need our support at times such as this.

These are certainly unprecedented and challenging times for us all, but our industry is known for its resilience, which will enable us to plan a brighter future together. What is clear is that, whatever is thrown at us, from pandemic to political and cultural change, to Arrogate's demise in the USA a few months ago, Juddmonte has rock solid foundations to thrive and keep breeding and racing the best racehorses in each generation. But we also know that the future is never exactly the same as the past.

Juddmonte has never been shy of change, balancing the long-term approach, essential to achieving a settled and balanced breeding programme, with the sometimes difficult decisions that need to be made to ensure an effective operation, whilst still competing at the highest level.

Throughout the last 40 years, we have been supported in this journey by you, our fellow breeders. Many of you have been friends and clients of Juddmonte from its inception. Your passion for quality and success mirrors that of Prince Khalid's and, by entrusting us with so many of your mares over the years, you have helped shape the international reputation of Juddmonte's stallion rosters.

We hope you enjoy this celebratory edition of our stallion brochure and hearing from our staff and breeders alike who play such important roles in Juddmonte's evolving story.

Juddmonte's origins

Early notable purchases

1977

Prince Khalid becomes an owner

A first venture to the Newmarket sales in 1977 led to the acquisition of four yearlings.

Colours registered

The green silks with the pink sash and cap and white sleeves soon became associated with success. In time they would be recognisable throughout the world of racing.

1978

Known Fact purchased

At the Keeneland Sales Prince Khalid was taken by a son of US sire In Reality. He paid $225,000 to bring him back to the UK, where he was called Known Fact and put into training with Jeremy Tree at Beckhampton.

1979

First winner

Two-year-old Charming Native, ridden by Lester Piggott, became the first horse to win in the green, white and pink silks. Though victory came in a modest race at Windsor, it foretold a significant change in the Prince's fortunes as the two-year-old filly Abeer won the Gr.2 Queen Mary Stakes at Royal Ascot in the early summer.

First Group 1 winner

Known Fact became Prince Khalid's first Group 1 winner when landing the Middle Park Stakes on Newmarket's Rowley Mile. The following year he returned to the scene of that victory and ran a fine race when finishing second to the French colt Nureyev in the Gr.1 2000 Guineas. Drama followed as the stewards enquired into Philippe Paquet's riding of Nureyev. The French-trained colt had caused interference and was disqualified. Though the Prince would have preferred a first Classic success in different circumstances, it was obvious that Known Fact was a high-class miler with a pedigree that assured him of a career at stud.

Laying the foundations

One of the first mares bought by Prince Khalid was Monroe, who would become one of Juddmonte's foundation mares, helping to create a family line that would endure, including through current stallion Bated Breath.

Juddmonte begins

With the operation set to expand further, two farms were bought in Berkshire, Cayton Park Stud and Pudders Farm. They would become known as Juddmonte Farms, Wargrave, for by now Juddmonte had become the name for the Prince's entire operation. While continuing to invest in yearlings, Prince Khalid had also been acquiring broodmares, without whom no breeder can aspire to producing homebred champions.

1981-1983

Creating families

Instinct, judgement, homework, luck; whatever it took, through his advisors Prince Khalid found the right mares. He acquired Sookera and Mofida from Robert Sangster, Aryenne from France, Slightly Dangerous from Alan Clore, Fleet Girl, ancestress of the great Enable, from Dr Herbert Schnapka. Rockfest (pictured), ancestress of Frankel, from Jock Whitney. The mares created family lines that would come to define Juddmonte.

First stallion

Known Fact stood his first season as a stallion at Wargrave at a private fee. He later spent two seasons at Whitsbury Manor Stud before relocating to Juddmonte Farms in Kentucky in 1988. There is no Godolphin-line sire at stud in Europe today who does not descend in the male line through Known Fact.

1982

Dam of champions

Prince Khalid bought Razzyana as a yearling at the 1982 Fasig-Tipton Saratoga Sale, and though her racing career was short and undistinguished, she reached impressive heights as a broodmare. Her first foal was Danehill, a champion sprinter on the track and then a supreme stallion, in Europe and in Australia where he was champion sire nine times.

Rainbow Quest

By 1982, Prince Khalid at the Fasig-Tipton July Sale identified a son of Blushing Groom out of I Will Follow that seemed interesting. That $950,000 yearling would be called Rainbow Quest. He would go on to provide Prince Khalid with his first of six wins in the Gr.1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and play a pivotal part in the story of Juddmonte. He was a fine racehorse, and an even better stallion.

Dancing Brave

A colt by Lyphard out of Navajo Princess was purchased for $200,000 from the Fasig-Tipton Yearling Sale. Named Dancing Brave, the colt would go on to win the 2000 Guineas, Eclipse, King George VI & Queen Elizabeth Stakes and Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe in 1986.

1985

A first Arc

Rainbow Quest's victory in the 1985 Arc was testimony to some kind of justice in horseracing. Sagace was the favourite and when he accelerated at the two-furlong marker, only Rainbow Quest could go after him. The two horses came close together. Sagace sensed Rainbow Quest was about to pass him and veered marginally left to stop him, continually bumping him. From the side-on camera it didn't look that grievous. The head-on camera told a very different story. In his matter-of-fact way Rainbow Quest's rider, the late and great Pat Eddery, told the stewards he'd got "three bumps" from his rival. The French stewards disqualified Sagace, Juddmonte had its first Arc and a future stallion. Here was a well-bred colt with a brilliant racing career who also had that special quality of always wanting to do his best.

A YEAR AT THE RACES

Now and again Rob Bowley will leave his house at Banstead Manor Stud and walk to the nearby woods. He will take a piece of timber, his penknife, a burner to boil water, a mug and a fold-up chair. At his favourite spot, he will sit and carve, brew some tea and listen as the breeze rustles through the trees. “I let nature do the meditation for me,” he says.

He likes to make things from wood; a spoon, a spatula or a trinket for the mantelpiece. Sixty-two now, he’s getting to that point in his life where Jo, his wife, talks to him about slowing down, making a little more time for their three grandchildren, and he will say, “Yeah, in about three years I will.”

Rob is a stallion man at Banstead. Twenty-one years of his working life have been spent on the farm. What a life. A kid from Colchester, Essex, without anything in his pedigree to link him to stable yards or broodmares or stallions. How did he end up here? To know the answer, there is a better question: Why did the 10-year-old Robert Bowley from a small city in the south east of England have photos of Crepello, Never Say Die, Be Friendly, Royal Palace, Roan Rocket on his bedroom wall?

His family didn’t have a lot but Janet, his mum, paid for him to go to a riding school at nearby Dedham. “If you want to work with horses someday,” his dad George said, “that’s what you ought to do.”

At first, he thought to be a jockey. “See the size of these hands,” he says, “I became too heavy.” Something led him to stallions, an invisible spirit nudging him to where he was meant to be. He could tell you it was a dream to one day take care of a horse like Frankel. That would be a lie though. A child’s imagination stretches only so far.

Banstead’s stud manager Simon Mockridge came to him in early 2012 and suggested he should look after the greatest horse of this, or perhaps any generation. Frankel’s arrival at Banstead was imminent. It was like asking a seasoned caddie to take on the 21-year-old Tiger Woods. Rob though was hesitant. “What about Zamindar?” he asked.

At the time Zamindar and Oasis Dream were his stallions and the thought of parting with one felt like a betrayal. Zamindar’s age weighed against him. That didn’t matter to Rob. He loved that stallion. So desperately did he want Zamindar’s daughter Zarkava to win the Prix de l’Arc de Triomphe that he couldn’t bear to watch the race. Not at least until it was over. “Zamindar’s getting on now, Rob, it won’t be long before he’ll be retired,” Mockridge said. If there’s anything Rob’s learnt in 21 years at Banstead Manor, it is to trust his manager’s judgement.

Frankel arrives back to his birthplace to start his stallion career

Oasis Dream receives the BBA Silver Cigar Box after being crowned leading British-based stallion at the TBA Awards in 2009

Out in the woods, he thinks about the times he's had at Banstead. Sending in his CV, being interviewed by the stud groom Jim Power, then meeting Simon, the contract arriving in the post. Even then he sensed he was coming to a place unlike anywhere he'd been.

A year and a half later, he was busy with a strimmer on the farm when Simon stopped his car. "Rob," he said, "would you like to do a stallion?"

"I'm your man."

They were, after all, coming to take the greatest horse away from the yard where his legend was forged.

He thinks too about Oasis Dream. Seventeen years with Oasis has taught Rob about what it is to have a zest for life and never letting go. Rob used to think that as the years flew by, Oasis would chill and begin to take things in his stride. How many girlfriends does it take for a horse to relax and realise they'll wait for him? The penny never dropped for Oasis Dream. Call it what you will; alpha male syndrome, extreme virility, whatever. The slowdown never came. Rob loves that about him.

After returning from a week's holiday, the lads in the yard tell him Frankel wasn't himself for the first couple of days after he went away. In a funny way, he finds that reassuring.

If Oasis is a pure man's man, Frankel is more cerebral. An inquisitive and intelligent horse. People who haven't been around horses can't imagine how intelligent some of them are. Rob always remembers the day he and Simon and assistant stud manager Ed Murrell went to Sir Henry Cecil's stables at Warren Place to collect Frankel, so that he could begin his new life at Banstead Manor.

Ed drove the horse box. Simon alongside. A stallion man like Rob prefers a manager who will sit in the cab of the horse box, who's well able to walk a stallion and who will always be found in the covering barn when the business of the stud is at its most intense.

They made the short journey from Banstead to Warren Place with some trepidation. They were, after all, coming to take the greatest horse away from the yard where his legend was forged. Though in the last throes of his illness, Sir Henry Cecil was there. So, too, it seemed his entire staff. They'd gathered to say goodbye, a sad farewell but also a fond one, for however much they loved the horse they understood it would end like this. TV cameras recorded the handover.

Simon said to Henry's staff that he felt terrible, like a child-snatcher. Rob remembers there were a lot of people with tears in their eyes. Then they were loading Frankel onto the box and driving out of there. It all happened pretty quickly. Leaving Henry's yard, Rob understood their world had changed.

If Rob had to distil the 21 years into one scene that told the entire story, he knows the one. It would be 6.25 on a summer's morning, a month or so after the covering season has ended, and he's walking from his home on the farm to the stallion yard. In this scene he's smiling as he walks, thinking of Frankel who will be standing in his box, head leaning out over the half-door.

He is looking to see who's about, to let everyone know he's up and open to attention. First thing Rob will do is clear the droppings from his box, he'll then wipe Frankel down, making sure all is good. He'll go to the feed room to fetch breakfast and soon he'll hear Frankel shouting: how long is this going to take?

Rob tells him to be patient, it's coming, and the conversation is never-ending. To be honest, it's mostly Rob doing the talking. After feeding, Rob returns to his box and puts the protective boots on Frankel and by 7.45, they are walking down to his paddock where he will relax for four hours. Maybe six hours if it's a particularly nice day.

About one thing, Rob Bowley is absolutely sure. Frankel enjoys life at Banstead Manor. Which makes two of them.

BREEDER INSIGHT

Yvonne Jacques

CARISBROOKE STUD

Once Yvonne Jacques decided to extend her racing passion into breeding horses, there was always a strong chance she'd turn to Juddmonte – given that it was Dansili who ignited her interest.

Jacques was a member of the Highclere Thoroughbred Racing syndicate that owned Harbinger, an unforgettable 11-length winner of the 2010 renewal of the Gr.1 King George VI & Queen Elizabeth Stakes.

The brilliant colt was a son of Dansili, who served for many years at Banstead Manor. He was retired from stallion duties in 2018, but not before Jacques – who owns Carisbrooke Stud near Lambourn – had sent to him her Oasis Dream mare Sleek. It proved to be an inspired choice.

Her association with Dansili continues to this day as she is a committed supporter of his son Bated Breath. Jacques is also an ardent admirer of Frankel with a homebred filly by him in training and her mare Improve is currently in foal to the same stallion. Carisbrooke Stud also sent mares to Kingman, Expert Eye and Oasis Dream in 2020.

"I had a total passion about Dansili just because of my own experience with him. One of the first three broodmares I had was Sleek, who I bought as a foal and her breeding was such that it absolutely suited to go to Dansili. Ultimately, she produced the most beautiful filly foal. The filly turned out to be Stylistique, who in 2019 was second in the Gr.2 Rockfel Stakes [and is now a Listed winner], so that was a good start.

"Sadly we can't go to Dansili anymore but we wanted to follow that line, which is why we went to Bated Breath with Sleek. She has the most amazing foal by him at home – he really is lovely, an absolute cracker. So the plan is for the mare to go back to him in 2021.

"Along with Dansili, I also have Frankel in my heart. I had horses in training with Henry Cecil during the Frankel era and I was lucky enough on occasion to go to his box and give him a stroke. I'll never forget, either, seeing him win the Gr.1 2000 Guineas – it was totally awesome, the way he did that. In 2017 Sleek went to Frankel and as a result I have a nice filly by him in training with Roger Varian.

"I'm a relatively new kid on the block in that I've only owned Carisbrooke Stud for about three and a half years. I find the whole thing extremely exciting. I've got a great team behind me at the stud and Cathy Grassick, my bloodstock advisor. Our aspiration is to be a mini – and I mean a very mini – Juddmonte. It's just the most exquisite business model. I realise it takes time to build these things up and so I wish I'd started 40 years ago as well!"

Postscript: Carisbrooke Stud's Bated Breath foal out of Sleek fetched 105,000gns at the Tattersalls December Foal Sale, selling to Baroda Stud.

In 1987 Simon Mockridge became stud manager at Banstead Manor, having earned his spurs working for Juddmonte at Wargrave. His first task at Banstead was to deal with the effect of The Great Storm which caused so much damage in November of that year. Banstead wasn't spared. "It was like the apocalypse. There were trees down everywhere. On moving in, our first job was actually clearing trees."

Walk through the storm-ravaged farm in Mockridge's shoes. He had visited Banstead Manor in August at a time when negotiations between Prince Khalid's advisors and the Morriss family were ongoing. What he saw in August was the beauty of the place and its great potential. Of course, there was plenty of work to do; paddocks needed rebuilding, lanes that needed to be transformed into surfaced roads, everything was a bit rustic and unspoiled but needed modernisation.

"At the time Rainbow Quest was the only stallion we had. We didn't know how successful he would be at stud, but Prince Khalid was advised that, if he was going to stand stallions, the move was necessary. He needed to be Newmarket-based, where people could come and see the stallions. Wargrave was just that step too far away."

Returning to Banstead after the storm that November was sobering. The farm looked like it had been caught in the eye of this storm, which it had. The fallen trees, about 150 of them, couldn't just be loaded onto a trailer and taken away.

"Each one had to be cut into manageable portions. Then you had the problem of trying to know what to do with the timber. Every lumber merchant in the area had more trees than they could deal with. It took us a year to complete the clearing job."

The Almighty, looking down on the toil that followed, may have thought these folks deserve a break. And so it came to pass, the encouragement everyone needed. From his first crop, Rainbow Quest achieved unimaginable success.

Quest For Fame won the 1990 Gr.1 Derby in Prince Khalid's colours. Another son Saumarez won the Gr.1 Prix de l'Arc de Triomphe and Knight's Baroness won the Gr.1 Irish Oaks. For a stallion to sire three Group 1 winners in his first crop from 38 foals, especially in such prestigious races, is close to miraculous.

Quest For Fame

How could Prince Khalid, or Mr K Abdullah as his name appeared on the Epsom racecard on that sixth day of June 1990, not have considered Quest For Fame's victory in the Derby the ultimate sporting experience? His was no casual interest in the breeding of horses but a fascination that was the prelude to a deep knowledge and understanding of pedigrees.

After that magical first crop blazed the trail, Rainbow Quest's stock began to rise. At the peak of his popularity, he commanded a £50,000 fee. With so much invested in Banstead Manor, the success of the stud's first Juddmonte stallion was welcome indeed, though what they most remember at Banstead is the relationship between Rainbow Quest and his stallion man, John Gilbert.

This was a horse with love and loyalty for just one man. He wasn't ill-tempered or moody, just bright and playful and particular about who he wanted tending to him. If the horse had been in charge,

The main yard at Banstead Manor Stud

His was no casual interest in the breeding of horses but a fascination that was the prelude to a deep knowledge and understanding of pedigrees.

Pat O'Kelly

KILCARN STUD

Kilcarn Stud is a success story that has endured for over 70 years. Pat O'Kelly's business, located just outside Navan in Co. Meath, has been the source of many Group 1 winners. Lucky Vega became the latest name added to the stud's celebrated list of equine heroes and heroines when he recorded an emphatic victory in the 2020 Gr.1 Phoenix Stakes.

John Clarke gives an insight into Miss O'Kelly's operation as well as explaining why her Classic producer Love Magic visited Frankel in 2020.

"Kilcarn have always tried to keep their numbers at about 10 active mares. It is a select stud that has had an enormous amount of success. One of its most high-profile successes was Salsabil (winner of five Group 1s: the Prix Marcel Boussac, the 1000 Guineas, the Epsom Derby, the Irish Derby and the Prix Vermeille). The success has continued right through from Classic winner Snurge to the immensely successful Group 1 winner and sire Marju, to, in 2019, Channel who won the Gr.1 Prix de Diane – plus Lucky Vega in 2020.

"What were the factors in sending Love Magic to Frankel? Well, firstly he has been immensely successful. We wanted a top-class stallion for the mare. She is a young mare who has produced a very good Classic winner. We wanted a good-looking horse and Frankel fitted all the criteria. It was an easy selection for Pat, Nick Nugent – a director of the company – myself and our long-serving stud groom, Stuart Lanney.

"It is the four of us that make the decisions and we come to Juddmonte because we like the stallions first – that's the most important thing. We like them conformationally, we like the pedigrees and there is always a Juddmonte stallion which will suit a mare at every price range. We love doing business with Juddmonte – you know where you stand."

What can be said is that, on and off the track, Rainbow Quest was one of the most important horses on the Juddmonte team.

Rainbow Quest

► poor Johnny would never have had a day off. And if you were Rob Bowley or one of the other stallion men trying to catch Rainbow Quest in his paddock in John's absence, you had the devil's own job.

The horse would easily evade the best efforts to take hold of him. It seemed to his various pursuers that he was playing with them, just saying, "If John was here, I'd be good." That exasperated everyone, except maybe John Gilbert. But they all loved Rainbow Quest.

It's not possible to argue he was the Prince's greatest racehorse, not with Dancing Brave coming along so soon afterwards and both Frankel and Enable looming in the distant future. What can be said is that, on and off the track, Rainbow Quest was one of the most important horses on the Juddmonte team.

A young girl grows up in Warthill, a small village in Yorkshire. Her dad has a car dealership, her mum gives up her job to devote herself to the girl and her sister. She is called Claire and for the first six or seven years, everything appears normal. Then her parents begin to notice that if there's a horse race on television, the child watches intently, seeing something her sister and parents don't see.

Mum and Dad aren't interested in the sport. Not remotely. They don't keep ponies or in any way encourage an interest in horses. They can't explain why their younger girl has been smitten. They listen as she reels off the names of horses, jockeys and trainers. Where did we get her, they wonder?

One day, Claire Curry is watching a race on TV. She is nine at the time, maybe 10. Someone in the room asks, "what's the race?"

BREEDER INSIGHT

Guy Leach

LA PYLE PARTNERSHIP

One of the stand-out stories from the 2020 turf season was the success of Pyledriver, winner of the Gr.2 King Edward VII Stakes and the Gr.2 Great Voltigeur Stakes. His owner-breeders are brothers Guy and Huw Leach, along with their friend Roger Devlin. The last three years they have sent the dam of Pyledriver to Juddmonte stallions – Guy Leach outlines why.

"We are very small, hobby breeders with just one mare – La Pyle. Although we do look to sell the colts and keep the fillies, we primarily breed to race and our choice of stallion is not determined by fashion or prices achieved at the sales.

"When we were choosing a stallion for La Pyle's 2018 covering, her first foal, Pyledriver, was still a yearling, so she was unproven. We were looking for a proven stallion at a reasonable fee. Oasis Dream was ideal as a very successful stallion at a price point that made him excellent value for money. We have been delighted with the result – a good-looking colt, cast in the mould of his father.

"And so began our association with Juddmonte and in particular our relationship with Shane Horan. Shane is a pleasure to deal with and from day one has taken a keen interest in the development of La Pyle's broodmare career. It was Shane who suggested Frankel for La Pyle's 2019 covering. It can be difficult for small breeders to access the best stallions, so we were delighted with his suggestion. As we know, Frankel's start to his stallion career was phenomenal and the result of the mating is a stunning filly foal. It is wonderful watching her develop and although early days, we are extremely excited about her prospects.

"From his first foal crop Kingman has established himself as probably the most exciting young sire in the country – and understandably is heavily oversubscribed each year. We thought he was an ideal mate for La Pyle, and by the time we had chosen him for her 2020 covering, Pyledriver had won a Listed race as a two-year-old. Hence, she made it through the very exacting selection process for a date with Kingman. We look forward with hope and anticipation as to what the mating might bring.

"Juddmonte are professional and efficient. They operate at the top end of the stallion market and they treat their customers as you would expect when buying a luxury product. Throughout the team, they are lovely people to deal with and there is always a warm welcome awaiting you at Banstead Manor, whenever you visit. Of course, it does help that they have a fantastic roster of stallions!

"We shall look forward to continuing our excellent working relationship."

It is wonderful watching her develop and although early days, we are extremely excited about her prospects.

2020 Frankel filly out of La Pyle

Kind as a foal

Frankel as a foal

Claire replies, “the Oaks.” Then without prompting she starts talking about each filly and who it was sired by. “Sired by?” Where did she hear that? She’s a child for goodness sake.

“Claire, this obsession of yours with horseracing is you being selfish and neglecting more important things,” a teacher at Queen Margaret’s school in Epsom told her. “It’s not like you’re going to be able to make a career from this.” Without being rude or argumentative, Claire stood up for herself. She wasn’t made to be pushed around. No matter what, horses would be her career.

Under orders from concerned parents, she did an English degree at Birmingham University. Consider this though as the ultimate definition of desperation: while at university Claire worked at a Ladbroke’s betting shop in Birmingham because she thought it would look good on her CV. After graduating, she worked for Weatherbys, then Timeform but what she wanted was more specific.

“I wrote a speculative letter to Juddmonte. They got in touch and said there wasn’t a job but I was welcome to come and have a chat. I was set a task before the meeting, to write an essay on four horses.

“I remember I was quite honest about Zafonic. I said in my review you can’t keep calling him this ‘promising young sire’ because he hadn’t really delivered. I thought there’s no point in trying to toady up, better to be honest. The chat went well but that was it. No vacancies.”

A year or so later, Claire’s mum received a call from someone at Juddmonte who said they were now looking for a pedigree researcher and would her daughter be able to come for interview. The interview went well. Claire had the job she’d dreamt about.

Eighteen years have passed since she began at Banstead Manor. She knew she would love it and she has. As for quirky Newmarket, she’s come to love the town too. Living in the centre, the choice every morning is the Ashley Road or Duchess Drive to get to Banstead. She chooses Duchess because it’s more scenic and she likes to see Cheveley Park Stud and Dalham Hall Stud on her way to work. They remind her of how fortunate she’s been.

When people ask what she does for a living, she says she provides “a speed-dating service for horses.” Who is best suited to whom? Every year, decisions have to be made for each mare: to which stallion do we send her? The only certainty, she says, is the uncertainty of the outcome.

“I fully admit that if you had said to me Juddmonte is going to produce Frankel, the greatest racehorse of all time, and challenged me to pick the five most likely Juddmonte families to produce this horse, I would have gotten it wrong.

“Kind, of course, is a lovely broodmare and she was a good racemare but I didn’t see that family as the one to produce the star. We can say it’s science but it’s not. Luck plays a bigger part than people are prepared to admit.”

John & Tanya Gunther

GLENNWOOD FARM

John and Tanya Gunther’s desire to breed turf racehorses was fuelled in no small part by Frankel’s magnificent 11-length victory in the 2012 renewal of the Gr.1 Queen Anne Stakes at Royal Ascot.

“To watch that race, you felt like you were part of history just being there as a spectator,” says Tanya, whose father John established Glennwood Farm in Kentucky in the late 1980s. “To witness and marvel at Frankel’s superiority and the breeding pinnacle he represented for Juddmonte really ignited our dreams as breeders.”

The father-daughter Gunther duo have since built a boutique band of around 10 to 12 mares based in England and have had notable triumphs through their support of Juddmonte stallions. Without Parole, a 2015 foal by Frankel out of Without You Babe, provided the Gunthers with their own very special day at Royal Ascot, thanks to his victory in the 2018 Gr.1 St James’s Palace Stakes. “I’ve never seen my dad so thrilled. It meant absolutely everything to him, which in turn meant everything to me. It was one of the best days of our lives,” reflects Tanya.

Without You Babe also visited Kingman, resulting in She’s Got You, who won the 2020 Listed Violet Stakes at Monmouth Park. The future looks bright too as last February Without You Babe produced a colt by Frankel, making him a full brother to Without Parole.

Here, Tanya Gunther gives an insight into the working relationship that she and her father have with Juddmonte.

“We love working with Juddmonte. We are small breeders but we feel like they respect what we are trying to accomplish and really work with us to help us pursue our dreams of producing top-class racehorses. Juddmonte is one of the few stallion operations that we interact with where I feel like we have a connection in that way. It’s truly special – you can have a conversation breeder to breeder, rather than breeder to commercial operation, and that kind of relationship significantly contributes to success in our breeding endeavours.

“It resonates because we believe in our female families and seek to invest in them in order to breed the best racehorses that we can. When we have solid conviction about a mare, sometimes we may reach up to a stallion that might seem at the time to be a league above the mare. It’s really nice to be supported by Juddmonte in that ambition – and to feel that they recognise our hopes and dreams and trust that our convictions will often be well placed.

“Without You Babe was bred to Frankel in his second year. It had been my dad’s dream to breed a mare to Frankel ever since watching his incredible feats on the racetrack, and he was worried that Without You Babe might not be accepted since she hadn’t proven herself as a producer at that stage.

My dad will forever remember that Juddmonte accepted Without You Babe into Frankel’s book that year – he was prepared to take a leap of faith with the mare and he will never forget that Juddmonte took that leap with him. This mating produced Without Parole who became the best horse my dad has ever raced and, ultimately, the faith of both my dad and Juddmonte was rewarded.”

Prince Khalid admires Frankel in the winners' enclosure at Royal Ascot

“When I was at the sales I realised that it would be easier to buy horses and race them, but I got the feeling that this was not enough, that it would be more fun to do what people like the Aga Khan and Lord Howard de Walden did and build up your own families.”

Prince Khalid Abdullah

RACING POST 2010

Fine Edge, by Sharpen Up out of Prince Khalid's first mare Metair, Juddmonte's first homebred winner

The milestones, Simon. What were the early milestones?” Simon Mockridge considers the question, though not for long. “I think of Prince Khalid's first homebred winner, Fine Edge. The first homebred Group 1 winner, Warning, who was sired by Juddmonte's first Classic winner, Known Fact, out of one of our most influential broodmares, Slightly Dangerous. These were a few of the essential catalysts.”

Building the infrastructure necessary to produce homebred champions was costly and had to be underpinned by good judgement.

Having a strong team of broodmares proved the key to producing both great racehorses, and future stallions and broodmares. That Prince Khalid's vision extended beyond ownership of racehorses was apparent from the quality of the broodmares and also from the thought that went into the purchase of farms in Ireland and Kentucky in 1982.

Having a farm in Kentucky provided Juddmonte with a base in the US, where Prince Khalid would later have horses in training with renowned trainer, Bobby Frankel. As with Wargrave and then Banstead, the ambition was for the Lexington base to provide homebred horses to compete in the US.

Ireland was chosen for the quality of its grass and the horsemanship of the local workforce. Weanlings, six or seven months old, would be transferred to New Abbey Stud in County Kildare and from there onto nearby Ferrans near Kilcock, in County Meath. In Ireland the young horses are prepared for their dispersal to the training centres where they begin their racing careers.

Rory Mahon was stud manager at Ferrans when his boss Dr Herbert Schnapka sold the stud to Prince Khalid. Dr Schnapka also owned the Kentucky stud Belair that Juddmonte bought around the same time. “Dr Schnapka lived in Germany, I believe he was in the oil business,” says Mahon, “and there might have been a downturn in the oil market at that time.” At the time Time Magazine reported, “the world temporarily floats in a glut of oil.”

The deals to buy went through in 1982. Mahon stayed on as stud manager. “When Prince Khalid bought Ferrans Stud, included in the deal was a small little filly Fleet Girl.

“A mating with Ile de Bourbon produced Bourbon Girl, born in 1984, who was the dam of Apogee, who was dam of Concentric and she, of course, was the dam of Enable. If you want to understand how Juddmonte rose to the very top of the international breeding industry, that's the perfect example.”

Rory met his new boss around this time. “He seemed to me a very quiet man. Absolutely brilliant on pedigrees and loved his homebreds. He wanted to build an empire of top-class horses from family lines that Juddmonte would create.”

At first, it was 20 weanling foals coming from the UK. That number increased and now it's more like 100. They arrive like a new class of boarding school pupils, eventually learning to be comfortable with a rider on their back, and then learning to canter an easy mile building fitness without stressing limbs.

Chris Batterham

NYALETI

Nyaleti gave Chris Batterham and his family a thrilling ride as racehorse owners – now he is hoping she will do the same as a broodmare. Batterham bought her as a yearling from trainer Mark Johnston with a view to breeding from her one day. The Arch filly soon vindicated his faith in her by winning on debut at Salisbury and went on to land the then Juddmonte-sponsored Gr.3 Princess Margaret Stakes in 2017. The following season saw Nyaleti further enhance her profile with victory in the Gr.2 German 1000 Guineas.

Retired at the end of the 2019 season, she is now stabled at Chasemore Farm – around 40 minutes from where Batterham lives – and is in foal to Frankel. Here he reflects on Nyaleti's two landmark victories and looks forward to her secondary career as a broodmare.

“Winning the Princess Margaret Stakes was fantastic – it was a great day. Ever since the Salisbury win I'd kept getting these offers – they just kept getting bigger and bigger. I didn't want to sell her. If I'd sold her and seen her win the Princess Margaret in somebody else's colours I'd have been gutted – not just for a day, but months! Winning a race at Ascot on King George day was unbelievable and the trophy sits on a window ledge in our home. It's really nice – a glass vase with an engraving of Banstead Manor Stud on it.

“With the German 1000 Guineas, the kids came and we flew out of Heathrow about five or six in the morning. I remember saying, ‘We're going all this way to watch this two-minute race – we must be a bit bonkers!’ But we were really well looked after at Düsseldorf and of course she won. We were led down the stand, onto the course and the presentation was done with us in front of the winning post. A brass band played the British national anthem and the Union Jack was raised. It's a day that will live in my memory forever.

“How did we decide that Nyaleti should visit Frankel? Well, I'd met Shane Horan the day of the Princess Margaret Stakes and mentioned how I'd always wanted a filly to breed from. He said that I must come to Banstead Manor and his card sat on my desk. Anyway, last year I thought I'd contact Shane and went to see him, and he showed me the stallions. Frankel stood out for me – he knows he's good! So, Nyaleti was covered in February.

“I'm in the market for another horse now and said to Mark Johnston, ‘I'm not sure lightning can strike twice but at this point I'll go for another filly’. We'll see what happens...if you can do some good with a filly, then there's a residual value. Nyaleti is proof of that.”

Jimmy Murphy

REDPENDER STUD

Redpender Stud's strong reputation has risen yet further in 2020, thanks to the exploits of Happy Romance. The two-year-old Dandy Man filly, out of the Kilkenny farm's mare Rugged Up, has a Group 3 victory to her name, as well as valuable victories in the Super Sprint at Newbury and the Goffs UK sales race at York.

Happy Romance is just one among plenty of good horses associated with the business of Jimmy Murphy and his sons Brian and Eoghan. In relatively recent times, Redpender Stud has been home at some stage in their lives to Canford Cliffs, 2013 Champion Two-Year-Old Toormore and Estidhkaar – the latter pair are both produce of the mare Danetime Out.

Among Redpender's current broodmare band of around 10 is Shy Audience and in 2018 and 2019 she visited Bated Breath and Expert Eye respectively. Jimmy Murphy explains why he chose Juddmonte stallions for her.

"We wanted a proven horse for a second cover on a young mare. So that's why we went to Bated Breath. We thought he was able to get a sharp horse. And if they can't breed a winner by him, the mare is probably no good anyway."

"We also went to Expert Eye with Shy Audience. It's the same cross that had worked with Estidhkaar out of Danetime Out. He was by Dark Angel, a son of Acclamation [as Expert Eye is]. So that's why we went back to that cross. We're very happy with the foal – she's a filly with great quality and very stylish."

"It's very easy to work with Juddmonte – everybody has been helpful. I've known Simon Mockridge for a good few years and I also get on very well with Shane Horan."

"How long have I been at this? Probably 30 or 35 years. We've kept at it. It's a private stud – it's all ourselves and we either sink or swim!"

Postscript: Redpender Stud's decision to send Shy Audience to Bated Breath was thoroughly vindicated at the 2020 Tattersalls October Yearling Sale. Led up by Brian Murphy, Lot 1205 realised 280,000gns – at that point, the highest-priced Bated Breath ever to go through the sales ring. "It was a marvellous result," said a jubilant Jimmy after the colt was knocked down to Stroud Coleman Bloodstock.

Enable as a yearling

Ferrans Stud

Fleet Girl, ancestress of Enable

Rory knows what he looks for in a yearling. "The two things I look for in a young horse are temperament and soundness. Frankel was never sick, never lame. Never had a vet. Everything in the early stages pointed to him being a good horse. Did he have that big engine? I didn't know. No one could know at that stage."

He's been a long time at Ferrans. "The thing that I have loved about my 38 years with Juddmonte is that we were allowed to give the young horses the time they needed. This was so important because so many of our horses are slow maturing."

When the time came for Rory to pass the reins to a younger man, it had the potential to be difficult. Instead, it went smoothly. "My son Barry has taken over from me. He moved into the house that I had lived in, where he had been brought up, I moved a few miles down the road and the job became his."

"Juddmonte were very kind to me. They asked if I'd like to continue in a sort of consultant's role, coming in every day and keeping an eye on things. The truth is that I have nothing to teach Barry but I still love coming in and feeling involved. I couldn't have asked for more."

Simon Mockridge appreciates that Juddmonte has moved up to a level that not many foresaw. Now Banstead is home to the two most celebrated and successful horses of their generation; Frankel and Enable. They come in organised coaches to see Frankel. They are welcomed.

In Simon's mental graph of the progress that has been made, there are three distinct phases. The broodmares were high quality from the beginning. It is the quality of the stallions that has steadily risen. Mind you Known Fact, Warning and Rainbow Quest ensured Juddmonte got off to a good start.

Other good stallions came and went, a few didn't quite meet expectations, and then along came Dansili and Oasis Dream, who raised the bar. "Prince Khalid was never afraid of supporting the stallion base that he had. A horse like Dansili started at £8,000 and rose to £100,000. That was really down to the Prince because he sent him 20 mares a year, and it was this level and quality of support that accounted for his meteoric rise up the stallion ranks."

Oasis Dream, champion sprinter on the racecourse, was an easier sell. "He came to stud and stood at £25,000. He is a gorgeous horse to look at. Physically, he's a muscular, powerful, sprinter type. He was a great success from day one and he never looked back. And he still doesn't even at his age now. He's come back down to the fee he started at but that's to be expected. His son Showcasing is doing incredibly well at stud, and he is performing exceptionally as a broodmare sire, with four Group 1 winners in 2020 alone."

"In my eyes," adds Simon, "Prince Khalid is what Juddmonte is. He is passionate about racing and breeding and I see him as a guardian of the thoroughbred. He has been the guiding light for what has been achieved at Juddmonte."

Dansili in training

The Queen with Prince Khalid

Jamie Trotter was born in 1982, the same year that Known Fact became Juddmonte's first stallion. His earliest memory of admiration for a racehorse is Dancing Brave in 1986. Over the years that followed, Jamie's allegiance would switch from the flat to national hunt, from Dancing Brave to Desert Orchid, and then back to the flat again.

He went to university following a pact with his parents: "Do university and after that you can do what you want," they said. After university he headed for the blue grass of Kentucky and then home to Cheveley Park before being interviewed for the job of nominations manager with Juddmonte.

Pretty sure he wouldn't get it, he applied anyway. Simon asked him how "he would sell Observatory?" "With some difficulty," Jamie replied. "His stats are not very good." Still, he got the job.

Along the way, the woman that Jamie was about to propose to, Camilla Milbank, was involved in an accident while riding out on Saturday morning in Newmarket. Camilla was paralysed from the chest down. This was July 2009. "It was a brutal year," recalls Jamie. "Friends told me I should be sensible, whatever decision I made would be for my lifetime. They meant well, but not for one moment did I have a doubt about my future. For want of a better way of saying it, I didn't wish to be with anyone else. An old friend of Camilla's said to me, 'I don't know how you cope with the situation.' I said, 'I can because of who Camilla is.'"

Not long after getting married in 2011, the Trotters moved to Juddmonte's Estcourt Estate farm in Gloucestershire and in early 2013, Jamie became stud manager at Estcourt.

"The mares foal in Newmarket, then once back in foal and after 42 days in foal, about 90 per cent of them will come to us. Our job is then to take care of the foals, make sure they're going the right way, we'll look at conformation and see if we need to do any sort of correction work.

BREEDER INSIGHT

Mark Weinfeld

MEON VALLEY STUD

Meon Valley Stud has long been renowned for breeding top-class racehorses, stretching back to 1986 Gr.1 Irish Oaks heroine Colorspin. Established by Egon Weinfeld, the Hampshire-based farm has produced stars such as Milligram, Opera House, Cezanne, One So Wonderful, Lady Carla, Kayf Tara and Izzi Top.

That notable list of Group 1 winners was extended in 2019 by Anapurna, thanks to a superb victory in the Oaks at Epsom. The result was greeted with huge joy at Meon Valley Stud and also at Juddmonte as it marked Frankel's first British Classic triumph as a stallion. Indeed, it was rather fitting that the John Gosden-trained Anapurna – out of Dash To The Top – provided Frankel with such a landmark as the alliance between Meon Valley Stud and Juddmonte is an enduring one.

Here, Mark Weinfeld, the stud's managing partner, reflects on Anapurna – and the association with Banstead Manor.

"We've always used Juddmonte's stallions – from the early days of the stud. We had some success with Rainbow Quest and it just grew from there. Over the years we have used most of the Juddmonte stallions: Dansili, Cacique, Champs Elysees, etc. One Rainbow Quest broodmare that we had was Hyperspectra and she has produced several good horses for us – including France, by Desert Prince. He was pretty useful, winning the Gr.3 Tetrarch Stakes and was second in the Gr.1 Irish 2000 Guineas.

"With Anapurna, I liked the mating on paper – that in-cross idea, the Galileo line on the Montjeu. That was something we'd seen done before and been successful. And I felt Frankel would suit Dash To The Top very well physically.

"Anapurna was always a lovely foal and individual. She ran first time (finishing ninth at Wolverhampton) and I thought, 'Oh, that's not very exciting'. Then she came out and won (at Lingfield) and John said, 'I might put her away now and save her for an Oaks Trial'. We suddenly thought, we might just have something really good here! Oaks day was just unbelievable. We floated through it. After a bad day I watch the rerun yet again!

"Dash To The Top is back in foal to Frankel, so that's another exciting prospect lying ahead. She has been quite a tricky mare to get in foal again, so we're delighted we've got her in foal.

"We're very excited with Kingman too. We've had some luck with him with Twist 'N' Shake (as well as the promising Cosmic Princess who stays in training at four). She was a Listed winner and Group-3 placed out of Hippy Hippy Shake, a Danehill Dancer mare.

"Juddmonte have always treated us very well and they're very professional. We have a great working relationship with them. My father used their stallions from early on – the relationship has moved on a generation."

Dancing Brave finished his racing career as the highest-rated horse in the world, a crown he held for almost 40 years – until he was overtaken by Frankel

Estcourt Estate

► We'll take the foals through the weaning process, and two months after weaning we ship them to New Abbey Stud in Ireland where they are looked after until they are ready to progress to Ferrans."

At Estcourt the mares remain for most of the year and are readied for their next trip to Banstead, where the reproductive cycle begins again. Many of Prince Khalid's best mares, who are now retired, are seeing out their final years at Estcourt. "We call them the grannies," says Trotter. He and all those who work with the mares at Estcourt have their favourites. "You would be a strange kind of horseman if you didn't have a favourite. I love Passage of Time, she's one of those mares that not many people do like.

"Unfortunately, she's got a tag on her that says, 'bites and kicks.' Though I like her, she never looks like she's pleased to see me which is slightly disappointing. I feel like that person who is trying to give someone a lot of affection and hoping to get something back. But I don't get a lot back."

I thought this could be a great racehorse.
I've often said that
and been wrong.
Not this time.

A jubilant O'Rourke welcomes Arrogate to the Breeders' Cup winner's enclosure

The stallion complex at Juddmonte Farms, Kentucky

► It wasn't that difficult for Jamie to set up home at Estcourt as Tetbury is not so far from his Cheltenham roots. For Garrett O'Rourke it was different. He'd been brought up in County Limerick, not far from the Tipperary border and a part of Ireland where the thoroughbred is held in particular regard. His dad was a vet who treated his share of horses. As a boy, there was nothing Garrett liked more than accompanying his dad on visits to stud farms. That was it, his future was determined.

He left Ireland in 1986 and six years later was working for Coolmore in Kentucky when approached by the vet Walter Zent who asked him if he'd be interested in working for Juddmonte. Then Dr John Chandler, president of Juddmonte's US operation, spoke to him. This was coming up to Christmas 1992 and Garrett became part of the Juddmonte team. He's now general manager at the Prince's Lexington stud. America has become home.

Twenty-seven years working for Juddmonte has given him a life of plenty. Great days like the birth of Empire Maker. His dam Toussaud was one of the great Juddmonte mares but not blessed with good health.

"We had to work very hard to get foals out of her. We thought she and Unbridled could produce a great foal. It takes 45 minutes to an hour for a foal to stand and I have a clear memory of when Empire Maker stood up. He had the size, a beautiful head and great conformation. I thought this could be a great racehorse. I've often said that and been wrong. Not this time."

With Bob Baffert, Garrett bought Arrogate for Prince Khalid. He proved himself an extraordinary champion on the track. At the end of 2016 he was the highest ranked thoroughbred in the world. His career at stud promised great things. It lasted just three covering seasons and then in May 2020, Arrogate's natural exuberance led to a freak accident and the severing of his spinal cord. In early June he was euthanized.

Empire Maker wins the Belmont

“Sometimes horses can make you believe in Murphy’s Law, anything that can go wrong will go wrong,” says Garrett. “I’ve never seen a horse that had Arrogate’s energy, he was always rearing and bucking but he was never mean. Impatient yes, but not mean. And I’ve also never seen a horse incur a serious injury from rearing up, until Arrogate. His loss still hurts. We have three crops of his offspring. Hopefully there will be a few that remind us of him.”

Working with Prince Khalid taught Garrett about Juddmonte. What he learned is that his boss listens more than he speaks, and always has lots of questions. Sometimes Garrett felt that maybe Prince Khalid wasn’t agreeing with something, only for requests some time later to see if all the things that had been spoken about were actually done.

“It made me realise he was not only paying attention but he was way ahead of me. He’s a very deep thinker and from the beginning had a very clear vision of what direction he wanted to steer the operation. There is a tremendous clarity about what direction he wanted to go in. A lot of people say it’s easy to get to the top and hard to stay there. You just had to be around the man for a period of time to realise why he did stay at the top.

“I joke with people that Prince Khalid brings to mind an Oscar Wilde quote. ‘I have the simplest tastes. I’m always satisfied with the best.’”

BREEDER INSIGHT

Perry Bass

BASS STABLES

Ramona Bass inherited a love of horseracing from her father Arthur Seeligson, who was very successfully involved in the sport for more than 40 years. That passion has been passed on to her son Perry and they co-own Bass Stables, breeding and racing thoroughbreds. “The rest of our family thinks we’re crazy because we love this so much but you know how it goes – when it’s in your blood you’re hooked,” says Perry Bass.

He and his mother have developed an 18-strong broodmare band that has led to them searching near and far for the right stallions. Indeed, the Bass duo’s diligent planning resulted in a dual Grade 1-winner being shipped to Juddmonte for the 2018 covering season. While it may have been the first time one of their mares had ever been sent to Banstead Manor, Perry knew all about the stud having made a memorable visit seven years earlier.

“Back in 2011 after I finished university, I lived in London on a post-graduate visa and worked in bloodstock insurance. During my eight months in England I spent a weekend with a friend in Newmarket and we went to Banstead Manor. It was very impressive to see the operation there. We walked into a paddock and there were four mares together – Hasili, Heat Haze, Banks Hill and Kind. It was incredible and something I’ll never forget. It just struck me how much history and important bloodlines there were together in that field – the female families that Juddmonte has created over time. Those maternal lines are second to none.

“And, of course, 2011 was Frankel’s three-year-old season. I was lucky enough to see him win the Gr.3 Greenham Stakes at Newbury and then I saw him at Ascot in the Gr.1 St James’s Palace Stakes. You can watch his videos and appreciate how amazing he was, but in the flesh he is a whole different physical specimen – so impressive.

“The first mare we sent over to Frankel was Avenge, a two-time Grade 1 winner by War Front. She meant a lot to us. When we retired her after the 2017 Breeders’ Cup, we thought there weren’t as many options in the U.S., in terms of elite turf sires. And we’ve seen how successful European horses can be over in America. So, we thought why not try it ourselves? If you hit with a Frankel out of an elite Grade-1 winning mare, the sky is the limit in America.

“Steve Young, our bloodstock agent who helps us a lot, introduced us to Shane Horan, who has been very supportive of our venture. We thought Frankel would be very effective in the U.S. so we sent Avenge over and she has a yearling colt, who was foaled at Claiborne Farm in Kentucky. The next year we sent Miss Temple City – a three-time Grade-1 winning miler who we bought when she retired – and a mare we raced named Wild At Heart, a graded stakes winner in California. All three of those mares had a lot of natural speed, so we thought they were well suited for Frankel. We have three Frankel colts on the ground now so we couldn’t be more excited.

“Then Kingman came with Calyx in his first crop – what he did in the Gr.2 Coventry got everyone’s attention. He has kept coming with Persian King, Palace Pier and had some very nice winners in the U.S. this summer [including Gr.1 Hollywood Derby winner Domestic Spending]. That incredible turn of foot is something you don’t really see that much in America. And if you are a believer that milers make the best stallions, then there is no ceiling to what Kingman can accomplish at stud.

“We have two mares in foal to Kingman right now: Wild at Heart – who foaled her Frankel colt in the UK – and a homebred War Front mare named Wake Island. She’s a half to Gr.1 Arkansas Derby winner Magnum Moon who we bred. We also have Mrs McDougal, a multiple graded stakes winner, in foal to Frankel.

“Over the past few years we’ve been building up our broodmare band, so we’re at a stage where we much prefer to breed and race. We really enjoy the breeding aspect. Everyone likes to win, but when you win with one that you bred it means that much more.”

Bated Breath

Claire Curry well remembers her reaction to hearing that the Galileo colt out of Kind had been called Frankel. This would have been sometime in early 2010, before the colt's first run. "I just thought it was weird. Too soon. Bobby Frankel had died at the end of the previous year. I was just worried. Shows you what I know."

So much about the Frankel story could have been different. Juddmonte had entered a foal-share arrangement with Coolmore, agreeing to split the progeny of 10 mares that they would send to the Irish stud's stallions. They would have alternate picks and it so happened that the year Frankel was born, Juddmonte had first pick. Otherwise, the story would have been different.

Simon Mockridge considers what has been achieved at Juddmonte. Right now, there are five top-class stallions at Banstead Manor Stud and in Frankel and Kingman, two of the very best. Asked about how he saw things turning out, he admits he didn't imagine it could be as good as it is now.

It is not just the two stars but the balance of the five-stallion team. Seasoned and proven, Oasis Dream is living up to his considerable reputation as a sire. Bated Breath, a son of Juddmonte legend Dansili, has become a reliable sire in his own right and is rightly regarded as perhaps the best-value sire to be found anywhere. In 2019 at Royal Ascot, three of his offspring won, which put him on the same level as Galileo that week.

And there is a belief that the latest addition to the roster Expert Eye is destined to become a future star. His trainer Sir Michael Stoute has fond memories. "He was a very smart horse. When he flew away from them in the Jersey Stakes at Royal Ascot, you saw that. Then his turn of foot at the Breeders' Cup. A very good miler. I expect him to do well as a sire."

Simon Mockridge feels the same optimism. "His first crop of two-year-olds will race in 2022, so that is going to be exciting," he says. "The talk at the moment is extremely positive. Breeders are very happy. When someone says to you, it's the best foal out of the mare, then the stallion can do no more. And for me, that's reassuring because the horse is meeting expectations."

Bated Breath has become a reliable sire in his own right and is rightly regarded as perhaps the best-value sire to be found anywhere.

Expert Eye

Frankel

Prince Khalid had great vision, passion and desire, and his advisors purchased great mares, that was the starting point.

When Frankel took up residence at Banstead Manor at the end of 2012, the general consensus was that he had all the qualities necessary to become a leading sire. His stallion yard partner Rob Bowley loved Frankel for different reasons. “From the first day,” says Rob, “he was interested in the mares which was good, and he was also gentle with them.”

Of course, the proof of a stallion's worth lies in the progeny. The winners to runners ratio, the Group winners to runners ratio... and from the beginning, Frankel's stats have been extraordinary. In the Northern Hemisphere he has reached 40 Group winners quicker than any stallion in the history of the Pattern.

Frankel's nomination fee is £175,000 which reflects his eminence both as the greatest racehorse we have seen in Europe and an ability to pass on his qualities to so many of his offspring. That should have put Frankel in a class all of his own. Yet Kingman turned up at Banstead two years later and has quickly established himself as a top sire. A brilliant miler, he has been hugely popular with breeders as is reflected in his £150,000 nomination fee. That puts him close to the same level as Frankel.

“As a stallion manager, it's a difficult one to understand,” says Simon. “How can I explain it? If Frankel's progeny walked into the ring and all looked like him, people would pay millions. The fact is they look like the dams most of the time. It's more difficult to assess his progeny.

Kingman

John Camilleri

FAIRWAY THOROUGHBREDS

The dream for any breeding operation is to produce something special: that elite performer. It's an objective that John Camilleri has already achieved, thanks to Winx – one of the greatest-ever racehorses. And, in recent times, the desire to breed future champions has led his Fairway Thoroughbreds business to Juddmonte.

The prominent Australian breeder has sent mares to Banstead Manor to be covered on both Southern and Northern Hemisphere time – and has already enjoyed significant success in the sale ring. In 2019 a Kingman colt out of One Last Dance was the fifth highest lot to sell at Book 1 of the Tattersalls October Yearling Sale – realising 1.8 million gns in the ring. In 2020 at Book 2, a Frankel filly out of Love Is Blindness made 460,000gns, while a son of Kingman out of Allez Y was knocked down for 400,000gns.

Fairway Thoroughbreds has around 25-30 mares at Segenhoe Stud in the Hunter Valley in New South Wales and a smaller band located at Hazelwood Bloodstock in Newmarket and Norelands Stud in Ireland. Camilleri explains why Juddmonte's stallions have become an integral part in plans for his mares.

“From Australia, it really is a big call to be sending mares to the Northern Hemisphere. There is the obvious cost factor, whether the progeny of Northern Hemisphere stallions suit Australian conditions, as well as the travel factor. However, the Juddmonte stallion roster has been strong for many years and seems to be getting stronger with the likes of Frankel and Kingman joining the team. Their stallions are all superbly bred and performed at the highest levels during their racing careers.

“In terms of an organisation, Juddmonte have been superb. From their farming side to their admin or sales, anyone you deal with at Juddmonte you know what to expect and the standard is always the same. I love their professionalism and attention to detail.

“I just try and focus on my own breeding business and doing the best I can and we all have a different perspective on breeding and the end objectives. But if you had a mare worthy of sending to the Northern Hemisphere and taking those risks I mentioned earlier, it's difficult to go past the Juddmonte roster – as there is a strong possibility they will have a stallion to suit most mares – and the people that support it. From an Australian perspective, it certainly provides a wider stallion selection and gene pool if you are prepared to send them over.”

Juddmonte's first sixth generation homebred winner, Lucid Dreamer was unbeaten in two starts in 2020

“Whereas Kingman is the exact opposite. They all come out as peas in a pod, ‘That’s a Kingman. That’s a Kingman. That’s a Kingman.’ Plus he is a pure bay breeder. They have very little white on them. When they race his progeny look like him, they all have that speed, the same tail carriage and head carriage. People identify very readily with the Kingman stock.

“Frankel passes on something different, the thing that you can’t see. It’s all very well looking at a horse conformationally. We may find the most beautiful horse in the world, but has he got the temperament? Has he got the heart? Has he got the lungs? Has he got that will to win? Frankel’s offspring have these qualities in abundance and his numbers speak for themselves.”

And on it goes at Juddmonte, better than before and still growing. To what do we attribute the rise? Prince Khalid had great vision, passion and desire, and his advisors purchased great mares, that was the starting point. He chose great trainers and showed admirable loyalty to those he believed in, most notably Sir Henry Cecil. Though Frankel came towards the end of Sir Henry’s life, it seemed he was born to train that horse.

The farms were well chosen, so too the people to manage them because they’ve ensured that the stallions, mares and their progeny were cared for by the best people. Many well-bred horses have potential, but good people are needed to realise that potential. In the end though, there is no simple answer. It is not the trainers or the horses or the advisors or the stud managers or the staff in all the places. Rather it is something less visible, less measurable.

TRAINER INSIGHT

John Gosden

CLAREHAVEN STABLES

John Gosden is Prince Khalid Abdullah’s longest-serving trainer, having first been sent horses from Juddmonte in 1982. Back in those days Gosden was California-based and a young man starting out in his chosen profession, having spent time as an assistant with both Sir Noel Murless and Vincent O’Brien. In the ensuing 38 years Gosden has gone on to enjoy major success, not least for Prince Khalid for whom he has trained such notable stars as Observatory, Ryafan, Hatim, Zenda, Oasis Dream, Kingman, Calyx, Enable and Logician.

Here the four-time champion trainer reflects on an enduring and greatly-valued alliance...

“I probably came to Prince Khalid’s attention through Jeremy Tree. He not only trained for Prince Khalid but was also a close friend. Jeremy trained Bel Bolide and felt the horse would benefit from going to America and so I was asked to go to the farm at Wargrave to meet the Prince and it started from there. Bel Bolide became the first major horse I had for Juddmonte and he won some graded races in California and became a stallion out there.

“Training in California, I saw quite a lot of Prince Khalid because his sons were at Pepperdine University. He would come to visit them and then go racing at Santa Anita and Hollywood Park where I would see him and we’d have lunches together. It has been a privilege over many years to have had an excellent working relationship with him. I have been fortunate to have listened and learned from him.

“When I look back at the horses, Kingman stands out as the finest colt that I’ve trained for Prince Khalid. He possessed such strength and speed and, of course, is now doing so well at stud. Looking at the fillies, there has to be Enable, who developed a huge international following. She has been an extraordinary race-mare, who has given Prince Khalid huge pleasure. If I had to take one race from each of their careers to watch again and again, I’d choose Enable’s first Arc in 2017 – she was just unbeatable that day. And with Kingman, it would be his Sussex Stakes victory. They tried to trot for six furlongs and sprint for two but the fact was that Kingman had such extraordinary acceleration, he was able to overcome such tactics.

“I have greatly enjoyed the longstanding association, specifically because Prince Khalid really knows his pedigrees. He has always gone back to the pedigree because in the final analysis a pedigree is a race record coupled with bloodlines. Discussing horses in great depth on that front has been his forte. He has understood the whole of the racing and breeding industry very well in both America and Europe. This has been borne out by his huge success and it has all been achieved in 40 years, which is truly remarkable. He has obviously been very much the driving force and really has been a fantastic man to train for.”
